

As You Prepare to Make Your Pledge

- Even if you haven't pledged in past years, consider doing so this year. It provides a good reminder throughout the year of your commitment.
- Many members simply carry over the same pledge amount from year to year. For those whose income has increased the past year or two, should your pledge not reflect that?
- Whether your income has increased or not, ask yourself whether it would be possible to make a modest increase in the coming year. If you give 5% of your income, would 6% perhaps be something you could manage in 2025?
- Always remember to make your pledge—and give your offering—with St. Paul's words in mind: "God loves a cheerful giver" (2 Cor. 9:7). And a grateful one, too!
